

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

PRESS CONTACT

Akwero Lily Rose

phone: +211 (0) 955011011

+211 (0) 955022022

e-mail: press@kapitalmovie.net

Juba, 25th November 2015

Kapital Movie presents the first South Sudan #PeaceHackCamp in Juba

- Community Media and Empowerment, South Sudan PEACE CODE-A-THON
- Open tools & Media literacy for inter-communal peacebuilding in South Sudan
- Up-Cycle, Hands on Making, Open Knowledge, Innovation, Code4all, ICT4ag
- Event held in Juba, Monday November 30 - Wednesday Dec 02, 2015
- Free of charge - all members of the public are invited to participate

Think Different. Take Action. Hack for Peace!

#PeaceHackCamp is the first international Open ICT4D (ICT for Development), media and peacebuilding event in South Sudan, initiated by Kapital Movie (KMIC), a group of dedicated young South Sudanese media innovators, advocates and students.

#PeaceHackCamp is presented in collaboration with the Central Equatoria Women's Union (CEWU, South Sudan) and the Aggrey Jaden Cultural Center (South Sudan).

Lagu Stephen, director at Kapital Movie: "We invite kids, teachers, trainees, youths of all ages, and all people, with all skill levels and educational backgrounds from anywhere in South Sudan and beyond to join us for the #PeaceHackCamp."

Preliminary program and more details: <http://peacehackcamp.net/>

Daytime Venue 09.00 - 17.30: Central Equatoria Women's Union

Evening Venue 18.00 - 21.00: Aggrey Jaden Cultural Center

Social media channels

#PeaceHackCamp

w: <http://peacehackcamp.net/>

f: <https://www.facebook.com/events/898992440186445/>

t: #PeaceHackCamp #PHCjuba

Kapital Movie

w: <http://kapitalmovie.net/>

fb: <https://www.facebook.com/kapitalmovie.net>

t: @KapitalMovie

A unique opportunity for people in South Sudan to network with peer innovation communities from other African innovation labs, experience hands-on knowledge sharing and exchange good practices from local peacebuilding initiatives. The event will showcase IT and media literacy projects for inter-communal peacebuilding across South Sudan, DIY hardware making, run a peacebuilder app code-a-thon amongst others. Cultural sessions including music and dance round up an inspirational 3 day event.

“Hacking means finding new and innovative solutions: in hacking peace, where peace is elusive, we want to help re-open the window of opportunity in the world’s newest country for a peaceful, just and prosperous future,” Lagu Stephen says.

Including a high level panel discussion about possible ways towards peace and stability chaired by Professor Leben Nelson Moro (University of Juba), the #PeaceHackCamp will be different to the usual conference format. Visitors are invited to participate and collaborate during the event, in workshops taking place in the format of a “barcamp”. The organizers believe that peace in South Sudan is possible and needs the ongoing involvement from people of all sectors of society, specifically on the community level.

The birth of a technology hub in Juba by Markos Lemma (Medium, 25 November, 2015)

#PeaceHackCamp Workshops

Central Equatoria Women’s Union & Aggrey Jaden Cultural Center

All are welcome to become #PeaceHackCampers!

Learn + Make + Share = Peace + Knowledge

CODING | ICT | OPEN SOURCE

Code4all What is coding? For youths, educators and everyone!

Scratch / Afrimakers / Sound with Lual Michael Mayen (Juba), peace coders, Ahmed Bastawy (icealex, Egypt) and Daryl Lukas (MakerHut, Zambia) and Juba University Students Coding and Apps with Eva Yayi Mawa (Juba)

South Sudan PEACE CODE-A-THON curated by Eng-Lual Michael Mayen coders creating Peacebuilding solutions for all levels of mobile phone users

Open ICT in Agriculture (ICT4ag) with Mugethi Gitau (Kenya)

Open Source, ICT and Afro-Innovation?

What is Open Source? Free Ubuntu operating systems, Raspberry Pi and other open ICTs and Afro-Innovation with Sheila Birgen (iHUB Nairobi)

COMMUNITY BUILDING | ENGAGEMENT & EMPOWERMENT

Combating Social Media and Online Violence in South Sudan

How to use Facebook and other social media for Peace Building

Holistic Women’s Empowerment 3 day workshop on IT, peacebuilding and economic empowerment for women of all ages with Kudzai M Mubaiwa (Zimbabwe) ojoVoz Using mobile phones to create Community Knowledge Bases / - Sauti ya Wakulima (Voice of Farmers - ojoVoz app) with Saidi Suleyman Hamza (Tanzania)

UP-CYCLE SHOP | HANDS ON MAKING | OPEN KNOWLEDGE | INNOVATION

Juba Tree Tagging & Citizen Mapping

Diana Doki (Juba), Angelo Gum (Juba)

Mobile Phone Solar Charger with Timm Wille (Open Source Ecology)

How you can build your own simple solar power phone charger

Open Educational Resources: Free Mobile and Open ICTs in education development and teacher training with Viola Abango (Bahr el Ghazal University, Wau) and Martin Restrepo (Medellin, Colombia)

Open Innovation

Building and making almost anything in South Sudan with Fr. Joseph Okumu (community wireless networks, Gulu) and George Mel (DIY aeronautics, Juba)

Planting for Peace ... improving food security through individual practice with Deng Koor (Wau) and Diana Doki (Juba)

South Sudan Wikipedia Peace Agents initiative: Learning, Literacy and Collaboration, using the world's biggest free knowledge resource, presented by Viola Abango

Organizers and Partners

#PeaceHackCamp is a project run by Kapital Movie Industry Corporation (KMIC), Juba, South Sudan, a community interest based, non-profit organization formed in 2011.

#Peacehackcamp is organized in collaboration with the Central Equatoria Women's Union (CEWU, Juba), Aggrey Jaden Cultural Center (Juba), icebauhaus e.V. (Germany) and r0g_agency for open culture and critical transformation gGmbH (Germany).

Program partners: UNESCO, Youth Peacemaker Network, CityCom Technologies

Funding & Supporters

United States Agency for International Development (USAID) through the Internews South Sudan USAID / iStream small grants programme for South Sudanese media organisations (April 2015 – March 2016).

'Youth and Innovation barcamp' supported by the German Federal Ministry of International Cooperation and Development \(BMZ\) through its programme of "Support for Media, Access to Information and Freedom of Expression."

Programmes on mitigating social media hate speech and online incitement to violence form part of the #defyhatenow initiative funded by ifa \(Institut für Auslandsbeziehungen\) with means of the German Federal Foreign Office under the zivik Programme for Civic Conflict Resolution.

– Ends –